Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6).....	1, 3

Defendant TRACHTENBERG RODES & FRIEDBERG LLP (“TRF”) and Third-Party Defendants BARRY J. FRIEDBERG and LEONARD A. RODES, collectively, the (“TRF Defendants”), pursuant to this Court’s Order dated June 14, 2022 (ECF Doc. No. 92) submit this Memorandum of Law in support of their Motion to Dismiss Defendants/Third-Party Plaintiffs STAR AUTO SALES OF BAYSIDE, INC., STAR AUTO SALES OF QUEENS, LLC, STAR HYUNDAI LLC, STAR NISSAN, METRO CHRYSLER PLYMOUTH INC., STAR AUTO SALES OF QUEENS COUNTY LLC, AND STAR AUTO SALES OF QUEENS VILLAGE LLC (collectively, the “Star”) First Amended Cross-Claims against TRF and Third-Party Complaint against Barry J. Friedberg and Leonard A. Rodes. For the sake of brevity, TRF Defendants respectfully refer the Court to the factual allegations contained in Star’s Answer with First Amended Counterclaims, Cross-Claims and Third-Party Complaint. (Anesh Dec. Ex. B, pp. 36-49.)

ARGUMENT

A complaint is subject to dismissal when it fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted. Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6). “To survive a motion to dismiss, a complaint must contain sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to ‘state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.’ Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009). A complaint satisfies this pleading standard when its factual allegations “raise a right to relief above the speculative level.” Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 556 (2007). Legal conclusions and conclusory allegations merely reciting the elements of a claim are not entitled to the presumption of truth. Iqbal, at 680.

I. STAR IS NOT ENTITLED TO CONTRIBUTION AND/OR INDEMNIFICATION BECAUSE THEY ARE SOLELY RESPONSIBLE FOR PLAINTIFF’S INVOICES

The “crucial element in allowing a claim for contribution to proceed is that the breach of duty by the contributing party must have had a part in causing or augmenting the injury for which contribution is sought.” Amguard Ins. Co. v. Getty Realty Corp., 147 F. Supp. 3d. 212 (S.D.N.Y. 2015). Without an express agreement providing indemnification of one party in favor of another, a claim for common law indemnity is barred when the party seeking indemnification was itself at fault. Rosado v. Proctor & Schwartz, Inc., 66 N.Y.2d 21, 24 (1985).

Star alleges contribution/indegnification for “any portion of fees or charges alleged in the Complaint or otherwise,” including “any such amounts owed” to Plaintiff Rosenfield & Company, PLLC (“R&C”) for work performed pursuant to the letter dated October 24, 2019 (“2019 Engagement”).<sup>1</sup> (Anesh Dec. Ex. A, p. 15; id. at Ex. B, p. 47-8). According to the 2019 Engagement, R&C agreed to provide litigation support services to TRF in relation to work performed under a written Retainer Agreement between Star and TRF dated December 1, 2017 (“2017 Retainer”). (Anesh Dec. Ex. C.)

Star alleges the TRF Defendants incurred unapproved material expenses from R&C in connection to the litigation Star Auto Sales of Bayside, Inc. et al. v. Voynow, Case No. 1:18-cv-

<sup>1</sup> Under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6), even where a document is “not incorporated by reference” into the complaint, the court may nevertheless consider it where the complaint relies heavily upon its “terms and effect,” rendering the document “integral to the complaint.” See Chambers v. Time Warner, Inc., 282 F.3d 147, 153 (2nd Cir. 2002). Documents incorporated in this motion are integral to Star’s Third-Party Complaint.

05775 (E.D.N.Y.) (“Voynow”). (Anesh Dec. Ex. B. p. 47.) However, that goes against the conduct and practices of all parties involved during all relevant times. Pursuant to the 2017 Retainer, Star “retained [TRF] to represent you to consider and prosecute as mutually agreed claims . . . against your former accountants [Voynow]. . . . [TRF] will also work with . . . your new accountants [R&C].” [emphasis added].

As admitted by Star, from April 18, 2017 until April 17, 2020, R&C provided forensic accounting services directly to Star. (Anesh Dec. Ex. B. p. 17.) Star retained TRF from December 1, 2017 to December 18, 2020. (Anesh Dec. Ex. B. p. 42.) Star paid TRF’s invoices, which unequivocally demonstrate that TRF used R&C’s services in connection with Voynow, for nearly three years before, during, and after the execution of the 2019 Engagement without objection. (Anesh Dec. Ex. D.) Any objections Star may have possessed have long since been waived. Chisholm-Ryder Co. v. Sommer & Sommer, 70 A.D.2d 429, 431 (4th Dept. 1979). Star’s failure to sign the 2019 Engagement does not absolve Star of its responsibility to pay R&C for services rendered relating to Voynow. Star is solely responsible for R&C’s invoices; accordingly, Star cannot plead a valid cause of action for indemnification/contribution.

Star also fails to state a valid cause of action against Leonard Rodes, individually, because Star insufficiently pleads the existence of a fiduciary relationship between Rodes and Star. Rodes is absent from any of the allegations pertaining to overbilling, breach of contract, or poor performance. Likewise, Rodes cannot be held for contribution/indemnification because Star’s claims against him for fraudulent misrepresentation in the Florida Action also fail. (See infra.)

II. STAR CANNOT PLEAD A VALID CAUSE OF ACTION FOR BREACH OF CONTRACT BECAUSE STAR CONSENTED TO TRF’S INVOICES

Star alleges the TRF Defendants are liable for breach of the 2017 Retainer for “overbilling” and violating the “implied promise of due care.” (Anesh Dec. Ex. B. p. 42.) Documents integral to these claims unequivocally refute the allegations. Invoices demonstrate that the TRF Defendants provided Star with fair, reasonable, discounted, and detailed updates for services concerning Voynow, that were paid by Star, without objection, for nearly three years. (Anesh Dec. Ex. D.) Courts have long held that it is not necessary to establish the reasonableness of the fees owned when the client’s act of holding invoices for services without objection, gives inference that he assented to the correctness of the account items and balance due. E.g., Styles Brook Homeowners’ Assn. v. Blasi, 165 A.D.3d 1004, 1005 (2nd Dept. 2018); Lankler Siffert & Wohl, LLP v. Rossi, 287 F. Supp. 2d 398, 407 (S.D.N.Y. 2003). Silence is deemed acquiescence and warrants enforcement of the implied agreement to pay. Chisholm-Ryder Co., 70 A.D.2d at 431; see also Jim-Mar Corp. v. Aquatic Constr., 195 A.D.2d 868, 870 (3rd Dept. 1993). Star fails to plead they objected to these ‘unreasonable’ billing entries during the time the TRF Defendants were retained. Accordingly, Star fails to state a valid cause of action for breach of contract.

III. STAR CANNOT PLEAD A VALID CAUSE OF ACTION FOR FRAUDULENT MISREPRESENTATION AGAINST THE TRF DEFENDANTS

Star alleges that “as their attorney,” the TRF Defendants owed them a fiduciary duty, which was allegedly breached by the TRF Defendants’ intentional “material misrepresentations” regarding their “work and bills.” (Anesh Dec. Ex. B. p. 48.) To sufficiently plead a claim for fraudulent misrepresentation, one must plead facts that tend to “(1) specify the statements that were fraudulent, (2) identify the speaker, (3) state where and when the statements were made, and (4) explain why the statements were fraudulent.” Novak v. Kasaks, 216 F.3d 300, 306 (2d. Cir. 2000); see Fed. R. Civ. P. 9(b). “A plaintiff must show an intentional misrepresentation of a material fact resulting in some injury.” Held v. Kaufman, 91 N.Y.2d 425, 431 (N.Y. 1998).

A review of the First Amended Cross-Claims and Third-Party Complaint reveals that Star fails to plead any specific fraudulent misrepresentations made by the TRF Defendants. For example, Star alleges that the TRF Defendants fraudulently allowed Arena to overbill. (Anesh Dec. Ex. B. p. 42.) Likewise, “Around the time [Star] terminated TRF, [Star] spoke with Friedberg . . . and asked him to provide a brief explanation . . . Shockingly, Friedberg was barely able to describe . . . a half-dozen embezzlement schemes.” (Anesh Dec. Ex. B. p. 44.) Nowhere do these allegations indicate how or which specific statements were ‘fraudulent.’ In addition, these allegations arise out of the same facts as Star’s breach of contract claim, e.g., overbilling, etc. Accordingly, the cause of action for fraudulent misrepresentation is duplicative. Where a fiduciary duty is based upon a comprehensive written retainer between the parties, a claim for breach of fiduciary duty is duplicative of a claim for breach of contract and must be dismissed.” Northern Shipping Funds I, LLC v. Icon Capital Corp., 921 F. Supp. 2d 94, 105 (S.D.N.Y. 2013).

Star also fails to state a valid cause of action for fraudulent misrepresentation against TRF, Friedberg, and Rodes surrounding the “Florida Action.”<sup>2</sup> Star alleges that Rodes, using a sworn declaration from Friedberg, on behalf of TRF, filed a motion to dismiss, wherein Rodes made an intentionally false statement that Star paid a $5,000.00 retainer pursuant to the 2019 Engagement. (Anesh Dec. Ex. B. pp. 45-47.) First, Star fails to allege how they reasonably relied on these misrepresentations. Simply put, Star was not a party in the Florida Action.<sup>3</sup> The alleged misrepresentation was never made to Star, and thereby Star could not have adversely relied upon it. Second, Star alleges that due to the fraudulent misrepresentation, Star was caused to sustain damages by incurring legal fees. (Anesh Dec. Ex. B. pp. 45-47). Star’s contention that it would not have been sued in the instant proceeding ‘but for’ these representations is disingenuous because R&C already commenced legal action<sup>4</sup> against Star for claims arising from the 2019 Engagement, well before any representations were made by Rodes. (Anesh Dec. Ex. B. p. 47.)

As for Rodes, individually, it is well settled that a statement made in the course of a judicial proceeding “is absolutely privileged if, by any view or under any circumstances, it may be considered pertinent to the litigation.” Martirano v. Frost, 25 N.Y.2d 505, 507 (1969). The judicial proceedings privilege makes statements under any legal theory inactionable. See Casa de Meadows Inc., (Caymen Islands) v. Zaman, 76 A.D.3d 917, 921 (1st Dept. 2010). Lastly, the invoices demonstrate Rodes was not materially involved with R&C in Voynow. (Anesh Dec. Ex. D.) Rodes’ involvement was limited to his representation of TRF against R&C in the Florida Action. Accordingly, the Third-Party Complaint must be dismissed against Rodes, individually.

For the foregoing reasons, this Court should issue an Order dismissing Star’s First Amended Cross-Claims against Trachtenberg Rodes & Friedberg LLP and the Third-Party Complaint against Barry J. Friedberg and Leonard A. Rodes in its entirety.
